STOCKPORT GRAMMAR DRAMA

Drama Trip To London

Fifty Drama pupils from Third Year and above spent an action packed 48 hours in London. The group were entertained and terrified (in equal measure) at the London Dungeon, starstruck at the National Theatre, and enthralled by 'Cabaret' at the Kit Kat Club.

Whilst in the capital they saw two very contrasting shows. The first show was the highly surreal 'Here We Are', Stephen Sondheim's final musical, at the National Theatre - which confused and enthralled at the same time. Pupils were very excited to linger at the stage door for selfies and autographs.

Second day highlights included time to explore Covent Garden and a much-anticipated visit to see 'Cabaret' at The Kit Kat Club. Pupils were entertained and moved by the themes in the play.

Sixth Form pupil Hannah Johnson was intrigued to find out which ending the director had chosen, having spent many hours watching versions ahead of the production in preparation.

Third Year Scarlett Rose Somers commented that the trip had been: "the best, I loved how busy we were - it was jam packed, we did such a lot. I loved 'Cabaret' and can't stop singing it." She went onto say: "The staff were amazing; I've never had a trip like it."

Third Year Marco Burns added: "I love how all the pupils interacted with each other; it was really fun. The plays were amazing, and I would definitely go again!"
